Juror's Statement

October 1, 2006

I was very pleased to find such a high level of artistic skill and sensibility in both the Professional and Amateur sections of the Juried Fine Arts Division of the South Carolina State Fair.

That achievement is a credit to the cultural climate that exists in South Carolina and an attainment of which its citizens can be proud.

Even more important is the professional way the exhibition is handled, hung and judged at the South Carolina State Fair. I was please to be able to hand out so many awards but even so I wished for more. There were still deserving works I felt I could award.

Jurors look for work, no matter what the medium, that has an original viewpoint, a design or composition that grabs one's attention and a high skill level for handling the chosen media of the work. Rejection is part of the judging process but it must be remembered the decisions of a Juror are subjective and a work rejected by one juror may be accepted by another with a different artistic viewpoint.

The dedicated and knowledgable men and women who devote their expertise and time to handling and hanging the Fine Arts Exhibition made my task in judging the exhibition manageable and easy. Wanda Phillips, Show Chair, Donna Gore (Professional Division) and Jackie Brantley (Amateur Division) especially deserve my thanks.

Wanda and David Phillips were wonderful hosts while I was in Columbia and have given me a fine appreciation for the history and culture of Columbia and the warmth and graciousness of its people.
